Romulus council opposes incinerator

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The Romulus City Council passed a resolution Monday night that opposes the expansion and continued operation of the Central Wayne County Sanitation's incinerator located in Dearborn Heights.

The vote was 3-2 with Council members Deborah Romak, Mary Collins and William Wadsworth supporting the resolution and Councilmen Michael Prybyla and William Crova opposing the measure. Two councilmen—Randy Gear and Jimmie Raspberry—were absent from the meeting.

The main speaker requesting the council approve the resolution was Ed Mcardle of the Southeast Michigan Sierra Club.

Mcardle successfully had resolutions approved by councils in Melvindale (his home town), Huron Township and most recently Livonia.

Mcardle first spoke to the Romulus Council last week, but action was delayed when it was announced that an incinerator operation open house was planned for last Saturday. Crova was the lone Romulus official to attend the open house to hear views "from the operator's side."

The incinerator services waste from Dearborn Heights, Westland, Wayne, Garden City and Inkster.

Mcardle pressed heavily both May 26 and this Monday, stating that the Sierra Club has been a strong supporter of Romulus effort against Environmental Disposal Systems' plan to create a commercial deep-well within the city.

In place of the incinerator, Mcardle urges cities to step up their recycling efforts and to landfill what cannot be burnt. He strongly opposes the use of toxic ashes (taken from such incinerators) in road construction projects.

Supporters of the incinerator project, who spoke Monday night, included Acting Executive Director Steven R. Aynes, Wayne Mayor Kenneth Warfield and Jim Perry, incinerator plant manager.

City-wide garage sale extended to this week

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Reacting to last weekend's rainout, the Romulus City Council voted Monday night to extend the city-wide garage sale effort through this coming weekend.

Thus despite the advance forecast of more rain, the council will allow the garage sale operators to open their sale tables again tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday.

The city sale fee will be waived again.

Romulus graduate's killer could be charged soon

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Friends and family members of murdered 1989 Romulus High School graduate Everisto Dwayne Bosley are hoping that the recent recovery of the weapon that reportedly killed the automatic teller technician last November will lead to his killer's arrest.

It was reported last week that the murder gun was confiscated during the probe and arrests of two men in connection with a recent rash of jewelry heists in Oakland County.

Bosley, 25, formerly of Romulus, was shot to death early in the morning of Nov. 14, while doing maintenance work on an ATM unit outside the Comerica Bank at 13 Mile Road and Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills.

The slain technician was working for the Guardian Armored Security Services. No money was taken from the scene, police and the FBI investigators said.

The 9mm semi-automatic handgun reportedly was left behind at a recent robbery at the Tapper's Diamonds and Fine Jewelry store in West Bloomfield.

While two men, Antonio McKelton, 27, of Southfield, and Derrick Davis, 26, of Detroit, have been charged with various raps in connection with the jewelry robberies, as of Tuesday they had not been charged with Bosley's shooting death.

Romulus school spokespersons revealed that Bosley was best known by his middle name "Dwayne" during his days as a Romulus Eagles track star.

Shortly after Bosley's death, his former track coach Al Wilkerson remembered Bosley as the "friendly but assertive type."

Wilkerson added "Dwayne was always on time for practices and meets. He was a great motivator for his teammates via example and thus it was no surprise that he was chosen team captain in his senior year."

Last December, Bosley's mother, Martha, and sister, Brigitte, conducted a press conference to announce that there was a $47,000 reward for information that leads to the arrest and conviction of Bosley's killer(s).

Bosley, an ex-Marine, was a resident of River Rouge at the time of his death.

Term extension referendum, school trustee vote Monday

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

An almost silent campaign for two seats on the Romulus Community School Board will be climaxed next Monday, along with a city referendum to hike political terms from two to four years.

The referendum is expected to hike the voter count, but possibly not substantially. As of Tuesday only 201 absentee ballots (out of a possible 500) had been returned to the City Clerk's office).

Competing for the two school trustee seats will be incumbent President Kenneth Berlinn, 62, and challengers Johnnie Cofield, a 67-year-old mother of 11 Romulus High School graduates, and Eva Webb, 48, a city clerk's office employee.

Despite some high profile potential issues in this year's race, neither of the challengers seems to be trying to hold Berlinn's political feet to the fire publicly.

No matter who wins next Monday, there seems to be no major pressure to televise school board meetings.

When asked their views on the cable TV issue:

Berlinn said the board and administration of Superintendent Dr. William Bedell are working on such an effort, but want to make sure it is a quality programming project on the district's own cable channel.

He set no date for setting up such TV coverage at board meetings.

Bedell has long delayed such a televising effort.

Webb (having talked to numerous voters) said she favored televising board meetings, as do many such voters. She asked "If they can televise city council meetings, why can't they show board meetings also?"

Berlinn challenged his opponents by asking "If they want to serve on the board, why haven't they attended any recent board meetings?"

Neither opponent felt that it was a valid political need to attend such meetings prior to their potential election.

Defending his career effort on the board (dating back to the early 1980's) Berlinn said he was proud of the Romulus School District's massive technology progress early this decade and the more recent passage of the Romulus School Compact.

The school's technology program (funded by a $45 million referendum oked by voters) has made the district a technology leader across the U.S.

Meanwhile the compact spells out the roles of teachers, parents and students in the local educational system and urges all to sign their commitment to the compact forms.

Information on the Romulus School Compact project and other school initiatives were widely sought after by other school districts at the recent National School Board Association Convention in California, Berlinn said.

The board president said he strongly urges board members to attend such conferences "since all good ideas are not created in Romulus."

One program Romulus board members brought back in past years and used successfully was the school-business partnerships. Such partnerships have local business and industry members share their time, expertise and money with the schools and local students.

Webb said having the experience of being a parent has helped her research educational issues she hopes to bring with her as a potential school trustee.

She vows she has refused to get involved in "gossip cycles" involving the local school system, but continues to stress the fact that our students need more of a challenge in their classes today.

She feels the top level students are bored in their classes and that youth at all grade levels need to be preparing for their life in the adult

Knasiak to oppose Oakley for mayor

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Incumbent Mayor William Oakley will be challenged this fall by Leo Knasiak, a first time political activist.

Knasiak filed for the mayor's office on Monday.

A possible third mayoralty candidate, Theodore Romak, has taken out petitions to run for mayor, the city clerk's office reported. If Romak files, a primary for mayor will be needed.

Another recent political filer is Donald Morris, currently a city planning commissioner. Morris is seeking a seat on the city council.

The filing deadline for city offices is June 17.

Speed traps snare fast drivers

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

The warm late spring weather has ushered in both the cruising season and its curse -- the speed trap.

As Western Wayne County's pedal-stomping drivers are finding out, radar-equipped patrol cars are hidden in many road sides.

"We have special enforcement units with motorcycles or semi-marked cars without overhead lights on them," said Canton Police Officer Lou Stephens. "We usually have a couple semi-marked cars on every shift. We go all over."

Stephens said the units are usually assigned after crossing guards or homeowner groups complain about area speeders.

Observed speed traps in Canton include one on Haggerty between Ford and Cherry Hill, especially during school hours, when blinkers in north and southbound lanes flash 30 mph. Early and late in the month the street is loaded with unmarked Blue Canton police cars.

On Lilley Road between Palmer and Cherry Hill, a semi-marked car often lounges in the shoulder of the southbound road.

On Haggerty Road, between Warren and Joy, officers will sit in the parking lots on the east side and nail speeders traveling in either direction for minor speed deviations.

Reportedly Canton police will sit facing eastbound traffic on Ford near the Plant Nursery enforcing the double-nickel with radar anytime.

One city that doesn't admit to speed traps is Westland.

"We're overt," said Officer Skender Gocja. "In our orange and yellow cars you can't miss us.

However, Officer Gocja pointed out that almost all Westland's patrol officers are trained and certified in radar technology and that radar is installed in at least half of the city's patrol cars.

"Our cars are capable of running radar all the time and we're always finding something to do with the radar because we're always getting complaints from our residents about speeders racing past their neighborhoods, particularly on Newburgh and Cherry Hill roads. Our traffic bureau compiles a list of speeding complaints and puts it out to patrol cars so we can catch the speeders.

"We give out at least two speeding tickets a day but we don't have a quota because we're not out there to burden people with fines and costs. In fact, we usually give out as many warnings as tickets.

"Our goal is to be education oriented -- to get people's attention and then teach them to be a little bit more careful."

Patrol cars can be found on Newburgh, which Gocja calls the "Newburgh Freeway," Warren and Hix roads.

Speed traps are in the following areas:

- I-275 north and south: right by the overpass of Warren Road and I-275 a Canton Police Blue 1995 Jeep Cherokee sits and waits every morning and afternoon.

- I-275 north of M-14: just north of the M-14 interchange, the left lane of I-275 ends. Five cop cars hang out in the median, one facing each direction with laser and three others to pull over gunned speeders.

- I-275 road, north and south bound at exit 11: local officers (one in a plain silver Crown Victoria known as "The Silver Bullet" and the other one in a marked white Crown Victoria known as "Robo Cop") sit in the median behind the bridge just north of the exit. They also like to sit on top of the bridge over the freeway on exit 11.

- I-94 east toward Detroit Metro Airport, where there is usually either a State Police trooper or a Taylor police officer who sits at the last curve before the exit to Merriman Road.

- I-94, Dearborn, at the Michigan Avenue Exit: the trap runs for westbound traffic. One local Dearborn unit, usually an unmarked utility vehicle, sits behind the overpass supports on the island between the entrance ramp of US-12 and westbound I-94.

- I-94, around the area of Belleville Road, there are several turnarounds that the state police use to catch speeders in both directions.

- I-94: You can count on a ticket if your speeding between Haggerty and Rawsonville roads, both east and westbound lanes.

Other speed traps:

- Less than a mile after you enter Hines Drive from Ford Road there is a curve with a blind spot and the Sheriff's officers sit waiting. They are on the right side of the road in their white, black and gold new Chevrolet Caprices with radar. The Sheriff's patrol the entire park and have a multitude of vehicles -- Crown Victorias, Tauruses, F-150s, Caprice Classics, and motorcycles.

- At Metro Airport as you wait to pick up arriving passengers, cops with hand held computers run your plates for any minor infractions and ticket you instantly. Recently, they were writing tickets to those standing next to their cars, deftly pointing to the no parking sign. Also, they give speeding tickets to those driving 5-10 mph over the limit through the airport.

- Romulus: Eureka Road, on the south side of Metro Airport, between Middlebelt and Wayne roads, is a huge trap. Police hide all over, and will beam you as you are coming toward them.

- Van Buren, Michigan Avenue, where police wait behind an embankment where Business US-12 meets US-12.

Speed trap vehicles:

Besides knowing the traps, it helps to know the cars. Wayne County Sheriff's Department Deputies drive white Fords and Chevies, except at Metro Airport, where they drive white Explorers and Grand Cherokees. The department has two 1993 Ford Mustangs (blue and red), but they are experimental cars and have the 1996 Cobra 4.6 liter DOHC engine in them. Each has a light bar on the roof and "Wayne County Sheriff" in large white letters on the side. Wayne County uses white Ford Crown Victorias, Tauruses, Jeep Cherokees. Ford Crown Vics, unmarked black, gray, or maroon colors with some lights mounted under front bumper.

Most of the above information came from the Internet. For more information, check out <http://www.speedtrap.com>.

Editor's note: Best way to avoid tickets is to watch your speed when you're driving on any public road.

Newburgh Lake cleanup project completed

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region 5 said today that cleanup is now complete at the Evans Product Ditch site (also known as Newburgh Lake), Plymouth.

The site is an 8-acre area which lies between Plymouth Commerce Park and Newburgh Lake, which flows into the Middle Rouge River.

Over the course of the six month project, approximately 9,500 tons of contaminated soil and sediment were removed from the site. The contaminated materials have been transported for disposal to a landfill in Michigan and a hazardous waste disposal facility in New York.

Since the 1950s, many releases of industrial waste into Newburgh Lake have been reported. these materials included oil, machine-cleaning solvents, and polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs).

PCBs were first reported in Newburgh Lake fish in 1988. Following a study by Michigan Department of Natural Resources (now Michigan Department of Environmental Quality), a major source or the contaminated was determined to be the drainage ditch and surrounding soil which comprise the Evans Product Ditch site. MDEQ referred the site to EPA in June 1995, to further assess contaminated at the site.

YOUR MONEY MATTERS

Bills, Bills, Bills...

By Glen Miller
Mortgage Institute of Michigan

How does the poem go? I answered the door this morning—it was a man neatly dressed, he said he was a bill collector, so I gave him the stack on my desk.

Whether your stack is piled high or simply spread over every flat surface in your house, you may have options. In principle, credit cards are supposed to be short term financing tools. In real life, they represent balances and interest payments.

Today, more than ever, homeowners are using the equity they have built up in their homes to pay off credit cards and other bills—freeing up hundreds, even thousands of dollars per month in credit card and other payments and gaining potential tax benefits. The process is fast and easy.

For more information on how you can pay off the balances on your credit cards and other bills, contact me personally at (810) 358-8787. We offer no-cost, no-obligation payment comparisons and pre-approvals. Start saving today. All it takes is a phone call. ■

Thumbs down Bennett proposes bill against trade port

Residents of Western Wayne County would be spared the increased noise and air pollution of a trade port at Willow Run Airport under a bill introduced by state Senator Loren Bennett (R-Canton Township).

Under the bill, a trade port could not be created at an airport if it is within 15 miles of another airport that services four million or more passengers. Since Willow Run is within 15 miles of Metro Airport -- an airport that meets the above criteria -- there could be no trade port established at Willow Run.

"It makes no sense to develop Willow Run into a larger airport when it exists so close to Metro," Bennett said. "The noise and air traffic from Metro is already a major problem for people who live in the area. Putting another large airport in the area would be extremely unfair to the people who have to live near it."

If a trade port were to be established at Willow Run, the current runway would have to be extended to 10,000 feet to accommodate the larger planes. The flight path would be over the Western Wayne communities of Canton, Westland, Belleville, Van Buren, Plymouth, Northville and Livonia.

Bennett said, while he knows of no immediate plans to establish a trade port at Willow Run, he said there are some very powerful interest groups in the area who would like to see it happen.

"My bill would remove any chance of a trade port going in at Willow Run and would put this issue to rest for good!" Bennett said.

Attendance figures told

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Statistics developed from the cards turned in recently at the public hearing on the Environmental Disposal Systems permit application show that over 200 persons were in attendance, with 166 coming from Romulus.

The second highest number obviously came from Taylor (46). Sixteen communities were represented at the meeting with six from Belleville, four from New Boston, three from Inkster and Ypsilanti, and two each from Detroit, Wyandotte, Melvindale, Southgate and Milan. Five municipalities had one representative.

In addition a number of elected and wanna-be public officials were also there as was a large selection of teen-age students and senior citizens.

A total of 57 marked on their cards that they wished to speak. Some donated their time periods to others, who demanded to speak for longer than the allotted three minutes.

The hearing was called by the state's Department of Environmental Quality as a prelude to their decision on a permit request for an environmental project in Romulus.

Storage dilemmas solved in township

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

People living in and around Van Buren Township may soon have their storage problems solved.

Two separate mini-storage facilities have gotten special approval from the township board to build on sites located on Belleville Road.

Full House Mini Storage, with 530 storage units, will be located at 7886 Belleville Road, between Tyler and Ecorse roads. Although slightly smaller, 427 storage units, Aalcatraz Mini Storage will be located just south of Full House.

Wade Trim, the township's engineering consultant, and the Planning Commission found that both facilities met the conditions in the approval criteria. Aalcatraz and Full House will promote the use of the land in a socially and economically desirable manner for the township as a whole, and they enhance public convenience at their chosen locations. Limiting the hours of operation, intensity of exterior lighting, outdoor storage, types of material storage and accessory uses and retail sales will make the facilities compatible with the adjacent land.

Hours of operation for both will be limited until the residential use of the adjacent properties has been discontinued. Until that time, the facilities can keep hours between 6 a.m. and 11 p.m. Outdoor storage of any materials or vehicles, and storage of hazardous/flammable materials, animals, and/or perishable food products will be prohibited. Truck and trailer rentals will be prohibited, and retail sales will be limited to those normally associated with storage facilities, such as the sale of boxes, packing materials and locks.

Milford LaPensee, whose land backs up to the site where Full House Storage will sit, was concerned about the water run-off onto his land. Developmental Services Director Bryce Kelley explained that there is a retention basin in the plans, which will collect all of the storm water.

"The pond has depth to be sure there is no run-off," Kelley explained. "The township is more restrictive than the county because we have a higher water table than other parts of the county."

Both facilities will make accommodations for right of way in the event that Belleville Road is widened in the future.

"Some of the residents in that area prefer this usage because there will be less traffic than with other uses," said Supervisor Helen Foster.

Irene has been a member of the first Congregational Church of Wayne for 50 years, and helps where ever she is needed. She has been a member of the Friendship Center since 1991. For the past six years Irene has volunteered for the Mayor's Town Hall Meetings. Irene likes to be with people and enjoys talking to everyone. One of her enjoyments throughout her life was working with the children at Robichaud High School.

The committee believes that Irene goes beyond the call of duty as a volunteer, that is why they have chosen her to represent the Friendship Center and the Seniors of Westland as the Senior of the Month for June.

District shares planning with residents

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

Representative teachers, parents of pupils, taxpayers without school children, school administrators, and businessmen and women appointed to a committee all had a hand in shaping a long-range plan intended to guide Plymouth-Canton Community Schools through the year 2002.

"We want to build the district around the plan," Brian Broderick, who represented taxpayers without children, told the Board of Education.

Plan highlights included a long-term commitment to citizen participation, to making decision based on the district's curriculum, and detailed blueprints to accomplish the plans.

The board accepted the plan, which contained the following vision and mission statements, at its last board meeting:

The Vision of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools: We will develop capable, proficient citizens who have the ability to apply learning to excel throughout their lives.

The Mission of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools: In partnership with the community we expand and enrich educational opportunities empowering each student to achieve personal excellence.

The following 10 goals or, in the committee's lingo, "vision priorities" were adopted:

- 1) We have broad-based commitment to and participation in our vision and mission.
- 2) Our decision making is curriculum driven.
- 3) We continue to establish higher standards of achievement.
- 4) Our class sizes are appropriate for optimal student achievement.
- 5) A high level of trust exists among employees, administration, and Board of Education.
- 6) Parents and the community are actively involved throughout our District.
- 7) Information is available and accessible for all internal and external audiences.
- 8) Our facilities reflect an effective response to the demands of changing times.
- 9) District funding includes traditional and nontraditional sources.
- 10) An effective long range planning process is used.

Besides establishing priorities, the plan includes specific action steps to accomplish the goals and well-defined criteria to evaluate success in meeting the goals.

For example, goal 2, "Our decision making is curriculum driven," requires an annual assessment and adjustment based upon standardized tests, portfolios, classroom tests, and pilot programs.

The plan, which took two years to stitch together, was the result of group consensus.

"It was a very difficult and time-consuming process but we ended up with a product well worth the time and effort. . . (one that) all can buy into and support," said committee member Joann Gustafson, a chorus teacher at Lowell Middle School.

In shaping the plan, the committee partially based decisions on a district-wide survey, which indicated that school parents desired more curriculum information; the community was satisfied with their opportunities to participate in the schools; respondents felt class sizes are too large; district personnel are perceived as doing their jobs; and the district was spending enough money on extracurricular activities.

Committee member Brian Broderick said that the next step would be to "communicate the plan to the stake holders."

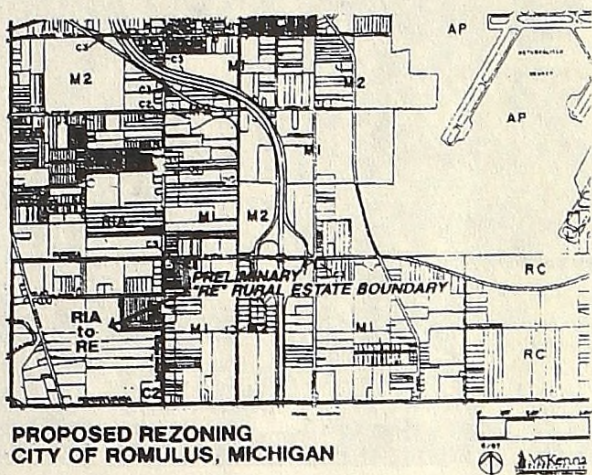

"You've given us more than even you realize," said board member Jack Farrow, who thanked the committee for the feedback about the community's perception of the board.

Member Mike Maloney added: "Recognize how far we've come as a school district. . . . We're moving toward the philosophy that the community owns the schools."

Vote with facts on real issues

As we evaluated the candidates seeking school board positions in the June 9 election, we were concerned that the focus of the campaigns of several candidates seemed to miss the mark.

Instead of zeroing in on the real issues facing the school districts, some of the rhetoric has centered around personalities and, in one instance, sexual preference. In two districts, charges of receiving school district funds for out-of-state conferences without prior approval have taken the forefront.

We hope that voters will look at these issues in a broad sense. For example, we do not dispute the fact that a "popular" individual can be an appropriate candidate for an elected post, but we are more concerned about what he or she has to offer in addition to good will and good intentions.

Is the candidate willing to put aside any private agenda that he or she might have and work for the betterment of the district and the improvement of education? Is the candidate willing to take an unpopular stand (such as a tax increase, privatization of some services, limiting employee raises and benefits or closing inefficient facilities) to provide a sound fiscal foundation for the district? Can the board member make unbiased decisions when family members and close acquaintances would benefit from the resulting policies?

In addition, there is a much bigger issue at stake involving the reimbursement of expenses prior to board approval than first meets the eye.

We are concerned whether the problems that have arisen over convention expenses are indicative of the way other funds are handled in some school districts. In the private sector, before a trip is approved for an individual, the expenses covered are clearly outlined and receipts are expected for any expenditures for which the individual seeks reimbursement. Funds are not dispensed until the appropriate documentation is completed and approved, and only an authorized company officer may sign or stamp checks. It seems appropriate that school districts, which operate with public not private funds, would be even more careful about the documentation and approval of expenditures.

When voters enter the polling places, we hope they will keep in mind the need to select candidates who are fiscally responsible, knowledgeable about education and not afraid to make difficult and unpopular decisions when they are called for.

We recommend the following:

Van Buren Public Schools

Incumbent Ralph Nodwell and newcomer Charles Turvey are in a heated battle for a four-year seat. Nodwell, has won numerous community awards for his volunteer activities in the Van Buren community. Some consider him the ultimate do-gooder. However, Eyewitness recently uncovered a scheme in which he allegedly attempted to collect twice for a trip he had taken to San Diego to attend a school board convention. Whether it was done innocently or not, we believe Nodwell owes the Van Buren School District an apology and voters should favor his opponent Charles Turvey for the school board post. Turvey seems to be determined to get the board's focus back on education and facilities and away from the petty bickering. We hope his determination is real and not rhetoric.

Wayne-Westland School District

Another heated battle pits incumbents Patricia (Trish) Brown and Mathew McCusker against four challengers — Gary Green, Jack Stange, Ed Turner and Marshall Wright. We recommend Turner and McCusker.

We believe School Board President Brown should be replaced. Her confrontational style does not belong on the school board. She has threatened many, including this newspaper, and the people of Wayne-Westland deserve better than that. Better comes in the form of Ed Turner, a strong and consistent champion of the school district and tireless volunteer for many good causes. Turner, we believe, offers a willingness to address the hard issue of living within the budget which we believe is of paramount importance in Wayne-Westland. For the second board member, we recommend voters retain Mathew McCusker, who has a long history in education and has displayed a willingness to listen to and act in favor of constituents' ideas and suggestions.

Plymouth-Canton School District

Three candidates — Carol Bollman, Suzanne Dersham and Roland Thomas — are competing for one position in this school district. We recommend voters choose Suzanne Dersham. A Canton resident, Dersham is extremely active in school activities and her enthusiasm will make her a wonderful addition to the board. Former school board president Thomas also deserves mention. His experience and outspoken nature have served him well in the past.

Inkster School District

By far, the best qualified candidate for the Inkster School Board is incumbent Beverly Johnson. Candidate Vivian Parker, who is in attendance at all school board meetings, is an able person to fill the second seat.

Romulus School District

Incumbent School Board President Ken Berlinn has the qualifications and experiences to merit another term. For the second seat, it is a toss-up between Johnnie Cofield and Eva Webb.

Westwood School District

In this district, we believe Jeanette Konchel's experience and Gregory Stephens' interest as a concerned parent would provide good leadership.

We recommend a "yes" vote for the 3 mill renewal.

Judge was driver's angel

To the editor:

Recently I was involved in an auto accident with a deer on a dark county road. I was terrified. Several cars passed by and then someone stopped and offered assistance. This angel in the night was The Honorable Tina Brooks Green. I will never, nor will my family, forget her kindness. She stayed with me at the scene of the accident, calmed my fears and waited for the police to arrive.

As we waited the judge spoke of the community she serves and I thought this is what community service is all about. Every person deeply committed to their community and demonstrating this commitment in thought word and deed. I want to publicly thank this distinguished jurist for caring.

The people in Wayne County should be proud of this outstanding judge.

School changes for the better

To the editor:

We all know that the Wayne-Westland School District is in bad shape financially and emotionally. The school district is one of the highest big-time spenders in the State of Michigan, yet they are broke, even asking Governor Engler for more money. Why? What happened to all our tax dollars? Why is the district broke?

Our School Board members and Administrators need to manage the school district more like a business and quit wasting our tax dollars. We need new Board members and new Administrators. We need a new start to change our district for the better. Maybe it would be better if Governor Engler had the state take over Wayne-Westland Schools. I think if we vote out the board members that are up for this June 9 Election and vote in new members that would be a start. Your children and your tax dollars are precious. Our children are our future.

The school district needs to take better care of our children and our tax dollars, that I think they have not done that is one reason why I resigned. But that is just my opinion and a lot of other peoples opinion, in this district.

Brad Stottlemeyer

Nodwell is role model

To the editor:

There are some people within the Van Buren School District who feel that district employees are involved in the upcoming school board election only because they want to protect their positions. This thinking is inaccurate. They are involved because they want to assure that the true needs of educating our children are met, and they want persons who have the same goals serving on the school board.

Ralph Nodwell demonstrates that he, too, is concerned about the educational needs of our children. He has been involved in numerous local activities which center on ALL the needs of youth, among which are co-chairing the fund raiser for Stephanie Smith, working with at-risk children all over the state of Michigan and setting into motion a school-wide pizza party for Rawsonville School students and staff to recognize their being honored as a Title I Distinguished School.

Ralph Nodwell is a positive role-model for the future citizens of this community. He portrays those characteristics which enhance the personal and academic development of our young people, and those characteristics include involvement, knowledge, honesty, trust, integrity, compassion and honor.

I believe that the citizens of this district are also concerned about the true needs of our children. I believe that they also want someone, serving on the school board, who exhibits all the qualities of a positive role-model, and that person is Ralph Nodwell!

School repair disputed plan

To the editor:

I was stunned by VBPS Board candidate Charles Turvey's statement, ".....the schools are in disrepair and 'sometimes the schools let this happen' so they can go out for more taxpayer money."

He was asked if this was a misquote or published as he intended; he replied that it was an accurate account of his feelings. How astonishing!! To make such a statement is simply ludicrous.

The relationship between the district and the public is not one in which the district wants to coerce the public in order to get frivolous things. Our schools are in disrepair, and it is not due to lack of or poor maintenance; it is more likely due to the fact that our buildings are getting old. Repair after repair can be done only so many times; eventually some things have seen their day and need to be replaced.

The same article state Mr. Turvey's hobby is working on old houses. In restoring these old homes, I wonder if he incurs expenses on such things as upgrading and/or replacing the roof, the plumbing, the heating mechanisms and the electrical system so that they are up-to-date and more cost-effective, or does he simply patch things so that they will be functional for a little longer periods of time? Would he purchase a structure that is in such poor condition that repairs would cost prohibitive? Is it wise to invest in something that will only end up costing more in the long run? Some structures can be repaired and brought up to tolerate conditions, temporarily, but not all can because, ultimately it would prove to be true waste of money. To me that is when wrongdoing occurs.

I do not believe that our district is saying "Hey, lets forget about trying to do more repairs; let's just get the taxpayers to fork out more money and get new things!" I believe that this district has repeatedly attempted to repair our buildings as much as it

Last minute strategies for paying college costs

Ready or not, here come those tuition bills. In the next few months, millions of parents of college-bound students will be making the inevitable switch from saving for college to paying for college. If your child didn't qualify for need-based financial aid, or if what he or she received wasn't enough, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (MAC-PA) suggests you consider the following last-minute strategies for paying college bills.

If you haven't already done so, now is the time to review all possible sources of grants and scholarships. By now, most of the athletic and academic scholarships have been spoken for, so you'll need to be creative. Check with your employer. Many companies have scholarship programs open to children of their employees. There are also many private scholarships available that are not based on need but, rather, on personal, occupational and education background.

The government offers several non-need-based loan programs at rates that are generally lower than you would get elsewhere. The government lends to students under the Stafford Loan program, and parents can borrow through the Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS) program. Any student who is enrolled in an eligible program of study at least half-time qualifies for an unsubsidized Stafford Loan.

Some families may not realize that they have resources of their own from which they can borrow. For example, by applying for a home equity loan or line of credit, you may be able to use the equity you have built up in your home to pay for tuition. In most cases, interest on up to $100,000 of a home equity loan is fully deductible.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

Regarding the controversy over payment of a convention reimbursement, Van Buren School District Trustee Susan Ward-Callahan said:

"It is true that the school board has a policy book as big as a Gutenberg Bible. Unfortunately, those involved with throwing the accusations have missed parts of the scripture...And I quote one more piece of 'scripture' from the bible: Policy BB states that among the many duties of school board members are as follows:

- To work harmoniously with other board members without trying either to dominate the board or neglect his share of the work.
- To accept the will of the majority in all cases and give whole-hearted support to the resulting policy.
- To represent the board and the VBPS in such a way as to promote both interest and support.

I am asking this community, I am asking this board, and I am asking the press to please help make Van Buren Schools strong, not one that people laugh at. Please do not make our children embarrassed by the way the adults behave."

possibly can, and further repairs would be a pure misuse of money.

I am vexed at reading so many articles which declare that our district is mismanaging and misapplying money, misleading the public and misconstruing the obvious needs. It is also extremely disheartening and demeaning to those who are in the buildings daily to have their viewpoints and positions discounted. No other professional field is as publicly ripped apart so viciously and as often as public education.

Teacher talks back

To the editor:

As a Van Buren home owner, tax payer, educator, soon-to-be parent and an extremely concerned member of this community, I have decided to stop sitting back quietly and start fighting back!! I have watched silently for years and not responded as a select few members of this community have printed and spread lie after lie about our schools.

I have never been the kind of person who writes letters to the paper, or who even sends back restaurant meals that are inadequate. I have just had enough. Our community members need to know the truth for a change.

As an expecting parent, I am terrified by the thought of bringing up my child in a community that is so filled with angry finger-pointing, negativity and hate. I will not be voting for Mr. Turvey just for this reason. My husband (who is also a teacher in Van Buren) and I have even contemplated moving to insure that our child will be brought up in a community that is loving and positive, as well as, in schools that have current technology and safe, healthy learning environments. I am not letting you people chase us out!! I/we will stay and fight! I believe in our administration, schools, staff, parents, and neighbors. I will stand proud that my own children will be educated in Van Buren Schools.

We, as teachers, are not asking for pats on the back. We are much too busy to even be patting ourselves on the back. As teachers, we have been slandered and abused by those who have absolutely no idea what is happening in our schools. These people are so obsessed about money issues that they have not taken the time to become involved and informed about our schools. Instead, that time is spent in front of typewriters spreading untruths, anger and negativity. Aren't we all tired of this?

I have watched our staff members, who spend much of their own after-school time and money volunteering in our schools, become depressed and stressed out over what they think is the negative new public opinion of teachers and our schools. How would you feel if people were out to take away your family's health insurance? The Board of Education is NOT able to find a cheaper insurance with the same exact coverage. Well, I am not going to believe that the whole community is against us any more. It is just a small vocal minority that is spreading inaccurate information. Another example of this would be the statement that our schools do not teach phonics or spelling. Please believe me, or better yet, come and see for yourself. We do teach phonics and spelling in our classrooms every day!

Here is another truth! We are here because we love what we do. Yes, we will be here pushing onward with or without new buildings, technology, or healthy learning environments. It is our duty as professionals to let out parents and public know about the unhealthy learning environments that our students are placed in daily. If our past voters did not believe, or just did not care because their own children are already out of school, so be it! We WILL continue to do our best with what we have to work with. But when our students can not compete with our surrounding districts, just don't point the finger only at us. Know that we have never given up. It was our community's choice to continue to educate without technology.

Each year I spend somewhere between $300 and $400 on materials for my students and classroom. I am by far NOT the only one. I am in school at least an hour early and several hours after school. I attend many night functions that are not required. I take home one-to-two hours of work a night. I do not have an "entire summer" off. I have taken classes during the summer and have attained my Masters Degree. This summer I will be teaching summer school. Soon I will be going back to school at night in pursuit of a second Masters. I want to keep professionally educated and updated in all of the new teaching techniques. I have made and continue to make these choices because I love my profession and my students. I do not write this for a pat on the back. I write this to tell you another truth: Van Buren teachers care! That is why I am here.

Please let this letter serve as a reminder to all community members that just because you get information in your mail box or see it in the paper does not mean it is the truth. There are people who would rather spend lots of money spreading lies and twisting and turning the truth than on our schools. PLEASE keep this in mind as you read negative information. You are welcome in our schools. Come see for yourself. How about some positives for a change! Don't believe the lies! Be informed and go out and vote for a man who has spent time in the schools. Mr. Ralph Nodwell will help us continue to help the students be the best that they can be!

Policies are self-serving

To the editor:

In light of the recent revelation of the anti-discrimination policy passed by the Wayne-Westland Community Schools school board, it is time to get rid of our present board and get some new people in their place. We do not need people on the board to try to pass self-serving policies on our children. The students of today have enough problems to face without having to worry about saying something that might be interpreted to violate some one else's rights.

The members of the school board have to remember that they are elected by the people of the district; and they owe it to the people to read and know thoroughly what they are voting on and be willing to answer to the people for the policies they pass.

With the school board elections on June 9, the people of the Wayne-Westland School District need to exercise their constitutional right and get out and vote. If we sit back and do nothing, then we give up our rights and enough of them are being taken away from us now.

Michael Donovan

Nodwell has integrity

To the editor:

It is my privilege and honor to say that I know Ralph Nodwell, and know him well. Over the years that he has been a member of the Belleville community, he has always exemplified the highest standards of integrity.

Since his retirement, Ralph has worked tirelessly and selflessly to benefit this community and especially our children. This was never more obvious than when we worked to raise the money necessary to help Stephanie Smith receive life-saving treatment. Though Ralph and I worked closely on Stephanie's fundraising project, I know of several other human stories of need where Ralph has led the charge if it meant bringing comfort and hope to someone, especially a child.

I am proud to know a man like Ralph Nodwell whose honesty has never been questioned, whose integrity has never been challenged in all the years he has lived and worked in this community. I am grateful to have the opportunity to speak on behalf of a man who has done so much for others and asked so little for himself.

Choose good character

To the editor:

On June 9 the Citizens of Wayne-Westland will have the opportunity to make a good character choice in school government. The globalization of our economy creates a greater need for strong-mindedness and dedicated thinking in the trustees of our school board. The inflationary entrapment in which we find ourselves requires a school board trustees who can make hard choices and has no personal agenda.

The good of the community and the best for our youth has been Ed Turner's living agenda. To use the School Board for self-promotion or as a stepping-stone to higher office is not Ed Turner's agenda. His agenda is the students. Vote for the best, Ed Turner.

Campaigning inappropriate

To the editor:

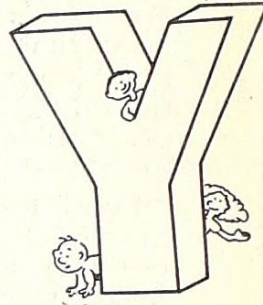

I was appalled while watching the 1997 Wayne Westland Memorial Day Parade to be approached by a campaign person for Ed Turner (candidate for school board).

This parade is to honor and have respect for departed veterans and their family not to do campaigning.

Future reporters visit MCN headquarters

Twenty-seven student reporters from Halecreek Elementary in Romulus got an up close look at the inner workings of a newspaper when they visited the offices of the Michigan Community Newspapers.

The students were treated to a tour of the office, and were able to speak to Owner/Publisher Mike Wilcox, veteran reporter Tom Mooradian, and Bob Harris in the advertising department. The tour was given by Diane Ferguson, from the classified department, and Lori Gillespie, reporter for the Belleville Enterprise.

A copy of the Halecreek Herald was presented to Wilcox, along with an article about the school paper.

"We are students at Halecreek Elementary School in Romulus and we want you to know about our monthly newspaper. We call it the Halecreek Herald. It was started in October of 1994 by four sixth grade students. We now have one second grader, one third grader, one fourth grader, five fifth graders, and 19 sixth graders for a total of 27 reporters.

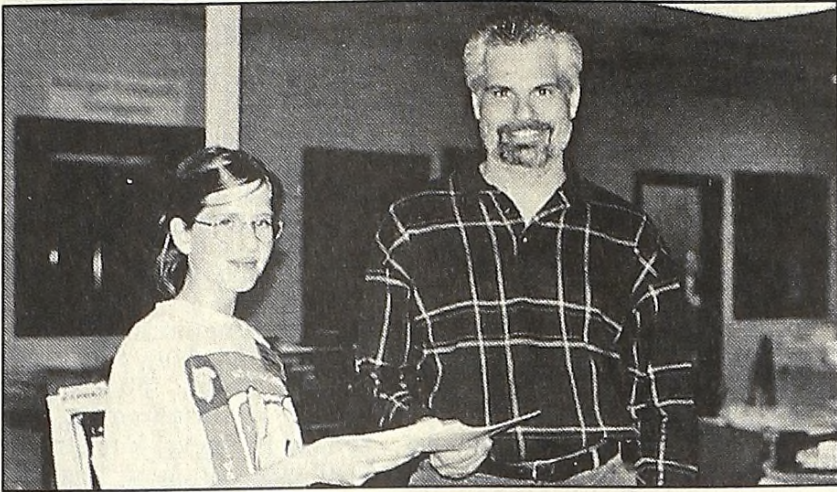

"Our purpose is to cover special events, classroom activities and school functions. We also have a book review and a staff member profile each month. Kiddie Korner and word search puzzles are also very popular.

"Every reporter learned how to use the Xap camera so we can have pictures in our paper. Clip art is also added as needed.

"How long we remain on the Herald staff depends on us. We have to keep up with our classroom work as well as have a good behavior record.

"All reporters feel they have benefited a great deal from this experience. We have to check to make sure our information and spelling is correct and do research in the Media Center, in our classrooms, or at home. We use the electronic encyclopedia as well as numerous hard copies that are available.

"Our hope is that as we move on, the Halecreek Herald will remain a permanent part of the available opportunities at Halecreek Elementary," the staff said.

Tax breaks proposed for officers

Police officers and residents would benefit under a package of bills jointly sponsored by Senator Loren Bennett (R-Canton Township), Senator Mike Rogers (R-Brighton) and Senator Leon Still (R-Spring Lake), that gives taxes breaks to officers residing in high-crime areas.

Under the package, for officers choosing to live in high-crime areas, income from their police work would be exempted from the state income tax and officers would be eligible for zero-interest housing loads. High-crime areas would be designated as such based on the state police Uniform Crime Reporting Statistics and the discount could apply to both state and municipal officers. In addition, officers living in high-crime areas would also be exempt from paying auto registration and license plate fees.

This package is an innovative and important step to improving life in certain neighborhoods," Bennett said. # Aiming for stars, preps fall short at state finals

Jarrett leaps to silver in long jump

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn's versatile athlete, David Jarrett, brought the curtains down to an outstanding high school career by finishing with a silver medal in the long jump at the Class A state finals staged at Rockford on Saturday.

Jarrett, a member of the elite All-State football club, leapt 21'11 3/4" to capture a second place in his specialty.

Jarrett's performance also earned him a berth on the All-State team in the sport, according to Glenn coach Jess Shough.

Jarrett, who helped the Rockets capture their first Class A regional title two weeks ago and their fifth Western Lakes Conference championship in a dozen years, holds the school record in the event at 23'6 1/2".

Garrett was one of a small cadre of local athletes who distinguished themselves at the state finals.

Romulus' 400-meter relay team, also competing in Class A, broke its school record en route to a third-place.

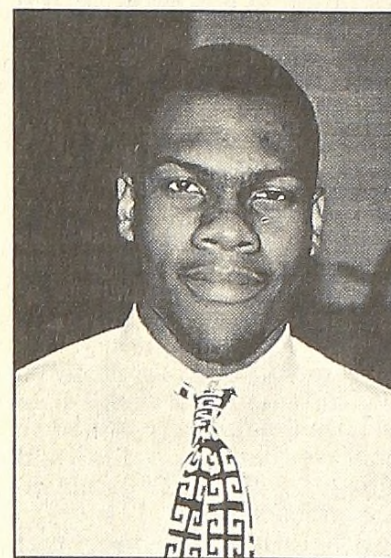

Coach Norb Glover's speed relay team, made up of Freddie Russell, Darius Fowler, Nick McKinnie, Brian Titus was clocked in 42.8 which nailed down the bronze and also established a new best in the event for the school. The old record was 43.3 set by the foursome of Phil Franklin, Lawan Wilson, Tyrone Talbert and James Erquardt.

Romulus also carded two fifth places in the finals. Russell ran a 10.44 in the 100-meter dash, while McKinnie leapt 21'10" in the long jump. "I felt our kids performed well against some of the premier athletes in the state," said Glover, who stressed that "reaching the state finals is an achievement in itself."

"When you get here, you know that you have arrived. Our kids showed that they have the talent to compete with the best in Michigan."

Glenn also had a speed relay team that finished ninth at state. Reggie Spearmon, Steve Hester, Aaron Stephens and Jarrett combined for a 43.85 for the 400-meter relay.

Meet of champions coming up

For most, the 1997 high school track & field season ended Saturday at the state finals.

But for Westland John Glenn's Dave Jarrett, he still has one more big meet.

Jarrett has been selected by Michigan high school track coaches to compete in the 1997 "Midwest Meet of Champions" which will be con-

Craig crowned queen in 200

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Although she did not have the phenomenal meet that she did a year ago, senior sprinter Tamika Craig did manage to retain her state crown in the 200-meter dash.

In 1996, Craig won the 100, 200 and 400-meter dashes and also helped her team win the 400-meter relay and the Class B state track & field championship.

On Saturday, Craig settled for a gold, silver and a pair of fourth places.

Robichaud also finished fourth team-wise.

Craig, one of the best all-around athletes to ever compete for Robichaud, won a gold with a 24.8 finish in the 200-meters at the state finals staged Saturday in Lowell.

Tamika's time was one-tenth of a second off the state record for the event.

"Tamika has had an outstanding career here at Robichaud," said Robichaud coach Francis McCauley. "We are very proud of her achievements as an athlete and as a student."

Craig's overall efforts lifted Robichaud to a fourth-place finish at state. The Bulldogs amassed 29 points and trailed Detroit Renaissance, which captured its first state team championship.

Corunna, the state runner-up, garnered 42 points, while St. Joseph was third (35), followed by Robichaud (35) and Grandville Calvin Christian wound up fifth (28).

Craig lost her bid for a second gold in a photo finish to LaTonya Jones, Saginaw Buena Vista's premier sprinter.

Jones was awarded the gold for a 12.3 run. She crossed the finish line a step ahead of Craig, who was clocked in 12.4.

The Robichaud senior struggled in the 400, but managed to salvage a fourth-place. She was clocked in 58.4.

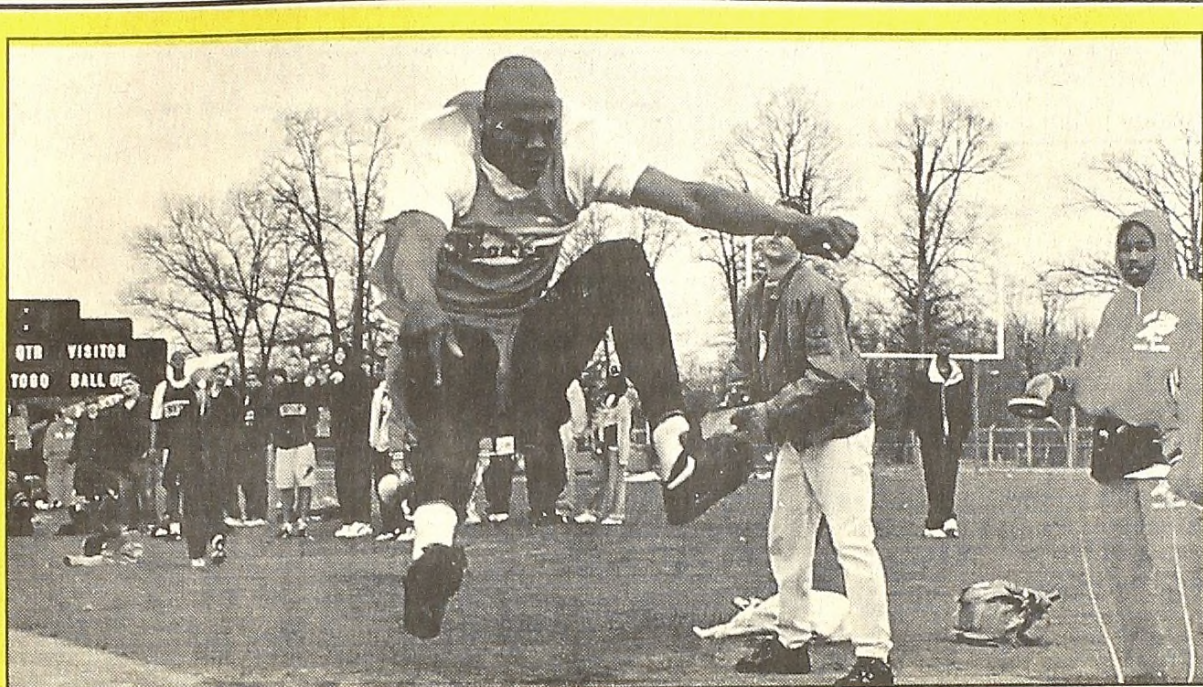

Robichaud also earned a fourth-place in the 1,600-meter relay event as Andrea McGrew, Lorri Alverson, Althea Graham and Craig combined for a 4:02.8.

McCauley said he felt that the "kids ran well at state, and stepped up their performances."

"But, we were in the slower heats," McCauley continued. "And that usually is a deterrent to performances because, the tougher the competition, the stronger the athlete usually responds. You rise to the occasion, the saying goes."

"We found ourselves in the slower heats and that really didn't help at all."

Striking back

Wayne puts end to Glenn season

After a season of ups-and-downs, Wayne Memorial struck back on Saturday and took its frustrations out on natural rival, Westland John Glenn, in their first-round of a Class A district baseball playoff game staged during a constant drizzle at Belleville High.

Wayne struck for four runs in the top of the seventh to put an end to Glenn's baseball season, 6-1. The victory advanced Wayne to the championship round which was postponed because of inclement weather.

Despite an effort by the Belleville grounds crew to repair the rain-drenched diamond, the second game of the playoffs series between host Belleville and Taylor Center had to be canceled.

School officials re-scheduled the Belleville-TC game and the championship for Monday, however, the weather had not improved and officials on Monday said they will try to get the game in on Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest.

"I have never seen the weather as bad as it has been this year," said Wayne coach Jim Chronowski, who commended Belleville for its efforts of attempting to repair the diamond. "Those guys put down a lot of diamond dust in hopes to get the field ready for the rest of the games. It just couldn't be done."

"The rain wouldn't quit," Chronowski added.

Chronowski said that the playoffs must be completed so that the district can send its representative to the regional playoffs, scheduled for Saturday at Ann Arbor Huron. The winner at Belleville will meet the district champ out of the Saline playoffs in the first round of the regional championship.

Vikings 'merciéd'

Inkster is ousted in pre-district

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Arch-rival Robichaud put a quick and merciful end to Inkster High's frustrating baseball season.

The Dearborn Heights' ball club exploded for eight runs in the top of the third and "merciéd" their former Suburban Athletic Conference rivals, 16-4, in a Class B pre-district playoff game last week.

"It's been a tough but a learning year for our kids," said Inkster coach Jerome Orr. "This is an inexperienced team made up of underclassmen, and I knew we would have our problems."

"But I am confident that we have overcome some of them. I am truly looking forward to next year. There were at least a dozen freshmen on this team and they will all be back in 1998."

Robichaud got to Inkster's starting pitcher, Randall Gaines, for a run in the opening inning, then erupted for five more in the second to take a 6-0 lead and that sent Gaines to the sidelines.

Orr replaced his starter with freshman Alphonso Clark, who also couldn't silence Robichaud's bats.

The Vikings averted the shutout in the third when they

On Saturday, Glenn drew first-blood in what was to be its final appearance of the season. The Rockets scored in the bottom of the first off of winning pitcher, John Clendening, who gave up a single to Gordie Smith and an RBI double to Jason Robertson.

The Wayne pitcher then settled down and scattered two other hits the rest of the way. He struck out five and walked one.

Wayne tied the score in the fourth when Chuck Leverenz drilled a lead off triple off of Robertson and scored on King's sacrifice fly.

In the sixth, Dennis McGill's double, followed by Temple's sacrifice and Kevin Wetmore's sacrifice fly produced the go-ahead run.

Because of the nonstop drizzle, the umps called the game

Big chill proves fatal to Romulus at pre-district's

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

This definitely was the season of baseball coach Don Foley's discontent.

Off to a horrendous start for the regular baseball season, the Romulus coach watched helplessly as his Eagles committed seven costly errors and dropped a 13-3 decision to an experienced, playoff-wise Westland John Glenn last week in a Class A pre-district game.

Glenn advanced to meet Wayne Memorial on Saturday in the first-round of the district playoffs and lost in a rain-delayed game at Belleville. (See Related Story on this page).

"I told the kids that they should forget what happened during the regular season, and that the playoffs was the beginning of a new season," said Foley afterward. "And when they scored two runs in the opening inning, I thought they were on the right track. I guess I was wrong."

The roller-coaster year ended for Romulus when the Westlanders came back in the bottom of the first and got to losing pitcher Sean Dick for the two tying runs then, with the help of seven errors, scored two more times in the third, added three runs in each of the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to "mercy" the Eagles.

In the Romulus first, leadoff batter Myron Gray greeted Glenn junior righthander Greg McCollum with a double down the right-field line. Dick then doubled Gray home. Foley decided to lift his senior hurler for pinch-runner Mark Baile who eventually scored after a stolen base and a wild pitch.

Romulus' 2-0 lead was short-lived.

Josh Utley's two-run homer in the bottom of the sixth with Brian Alt aboard sealed Romulus' fate. It gave McCollum his fifth victory of the season.

The junior righthander worked five innings before Glenn coach Todd Duffield removed his starter for reliever Alt. During his stint on the mound, McCollum fanned five, walked none and gave up only five hits.

McCollum also lifted his personal pitching record to 5-2 on the year.

In his final appearance on the Romulus mound, Dick had seven strikeouts, walked one but also hit one batter.

Romulus' final run of the 1997 campaign came in the top of the sixth when Mike Hatfield walked, advanced to second on a groundout and scored on Brett Gibbs' double.

The loss dipped Romulus' overall record to 8-19 on the year.

Tim Reeves led the Rockets' 13-hit assault as he chipped in with a single, double and triple and an RBI. Teammates Chet Rees, Steve Paling, Utley and Aaron James each collected two hits.

Utley and James also had a pair of runs batted in between them.

Repeat hoop champs

Team members include Jeff Tamarogolio (front row, from left) and Justin Rodgers; second row are Mike Murphy, Terry Pavlich, Jackie Priestley and Corey Pennywell. Jarrett becomes only the third Glenn athlete to be selected for the honor. He will compete in the long jump, an event he finished second at the state. Two former Glenn athletes - Carl Lowe, an outstanding middle-distance runner (1990) and Shawn Arbogast, in the shot put (1994), represented Glenn and Michigan in the Midwest Meet.

The premier Michigan athletes will be competing against their peers representing three other states - Ohio, Illinois and Indiana.

The prestigious invitational is sponsored by the High School Track Coaches Associations of the four participating states.

dent this year, Robichaud will have conference affiliation in the fall. The Bulldogs will join most of the former Suburban Athletic Conference affiliates in the expanded Mega Conference in the fall.

Robichaud, Inkster, Highland Park and River Rouge have been granted membership in the conference, ending a long legal battle with the Mega.

The Mega will create a "Gold Division" to accommodate the new teams. There are presently three divisions - Red, White, and Blue - and some 26 teams in the three divisions.

Where a team is assigned in the three-tier league usually depends on a team's prior year's performance. However, a team may petition to compete in a tougher league if it feels it has the talent and if there is a team in the higher bracket which would like to step down.

Blazers win WYAA hoop crown

It was a battle to the finish, but the Intermediate Blazers survived and claimed the Westland Youth Athletic Association Intermediate League basketball championship. ## Pennington finishes sixth in finals

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial's senior shot putter Ron Pennington culminated a successful season by earning all-state recognition at the Class A state championships staged Saturday in Rockford.

Pennington, who captured the gold in the shot put at the Mega Conference Red Division championships conducted in Monroe and finished with the silver in the discus came up with the sixth-best toss at the state finals.

He had a put of 54' 93/4" which was his best performance of the year.

"Ron's an exceptional athlete and a hard worker," said Wayne coach Floyd Carter. "He performed well against some kids who really were brilliant. There were some underclassmen at Rockford who had puts of 60' and more."

to inspect the field and to insure the integrity of the field. After some repairs were made, they decided to complete the game.

In the top of the seventh, Wayne sealed the victory with a four-run outburst. In that inning, McGill walked, reached third on Wetmore's base hit, then Robertson was ordered to intentionally walk Clark Boston, who had up to that time collected two of his team's seven hits.

Now, with the bases loaded,

Robertson faced Charles Leverenz who hammered a double into right-center that emptied the bases. King's single sent Leverenz home for the fourth and final run of the game.

Robertson, who gave up a total of seven hits, whiffed six and walked five, saw his record fall to 5-4 for the season.

Finals

Aaron James hit a streak of "bad luck" in the 100-meter dash when he pulled a leg muscle after qualifying for the semifinals.

Mike Samples failed to make the cut in the finals in the discus. His toss of 147' fell short, while the Rockets' high jumper, Mike Phillips, failed to negotiate the opening height. Jim Koch's 40.79 was a personal best time, but was not good enough to qualify him for the 300-meter hurdles.

Pontiac Northern and Pontiac Central dominated the 1997 Class A state championships. Northern, with 74 points surfaced with the state crown, while its cross-town rival, Central, was second-best.

All-Area coming up

It may have been a cold and miserable spring, but that didn't stop some of our local athletes from having outstanding seasons.

What's hot, what's not!

What's the best in entertainment, fashion and fun in Western Wayne County? Here's our list:

What's hot in films? The Lost World: Jurassic Park, of course. It's a must see for the special effects! For comedy, see Austin Powers: International Man of Mystery and Trial and Error.

What's hot in sports? The Red Wings, of course. If you don't have a Wings' jersey or sweatshirt, get one now. Red and white are the colors of fashion in the Detroit area.

What's hot on television? Not much, unless you've just returned from a six-month world tour! Re-runs are featured on most, if not all, shows.

What's hot in fashion? Straw hats, natural colors and animal prints (See story at right).

What's hot in entertainment? Family fun at local festivals, including:

- Belleville Strawberry Festival, June 13 to 15, at various venues around the city of Belleville, including Belleville High School, St. Anthony's Church, First Presbyterian Church of Belleville and Trinity Episcopal Church. The event will be launched with the Strawberry Queen Contest at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Belleville High School auditorium.
- Liberty Fest in Canton, June 19 to 22, with fireworks, laser light display, arts and crafts plus food and entertainment.

What fun for kids - of all ages? Guy Louis and the Chautauqua Express, appearing at noon June 21 at the Westland Public Library on Central City Parkway. For the past 10 years, Guy Louis has been performing his Chautauqua Express programs throughout Michigan at all types of fairs and festivals, community events, schools and libraries. As a specialist with stringed instruments such as the mandolin and guitar, Guy's shows are highly entertaining and very interactive with the audience.

Songs are drawn mainly from popular American sources, and carefully selected for each audience. Guy's wireless sound system allows him to impact the entire audience by extending the stage in every direction. Throughout the performance, there will be audience members coming on stage to play, sing or dance. The show takes its name from traveling shows, called Chautauquas, that were very popular in this country at the turn of the century. Setting up under tents, they offered all types of entertaining and educational performances to communities throughout North America.

Chautauquas hit their peak of popularity in 1921 when 40 million people attended the various touring programs nearly 10,000 communities in the U.S. and Canada.

Networking Students take journey across state

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

Fifth graders at Walker Elementary School are networking.

The students are part of an educational network, connecting them to students at Legg Elementary School in Coldwater. What do these two schools have in common? They're both located on Route 12, or Michigan Avenue, as it is known locally.

For several weeks, students at both schools learned about their own communities. Separated into groups, the students have created reports in the form of games, photo scrap books and other projects.

On May 12, Walker students embarked on a journey following Route 12 to Coldwater where they met with students from that city who have become their pen pals.

While there, the reports and projects created by both schools were shared. The students also made several stops on their way across the state. In Onsted, they visited a one-room schoolhouse and in Saline, they visited a pasty shop where they learned about the culture behind the Cornish miners' dish, which has become a staple in northern Michigan.

The Route 12 Project is based in Ann Arbor. Co-coordinator Margaret Carmona, from the University of Michigan, said the students are learning a lot from this project. Her fellow coordinator in the project is Daniel Jacobs, a graduate student at U of M, as well as a teacher at Birmingham Seaholm High School.

"They are learning a lot about geography and history," she said. "They are self-motivated. They take their projects home to work on them. They are very excited about the trip."

Carmona added that the teachers, Lori Bossio and Margie Lawrie, have been a big help with the project, and keeping the kids interested by working it into their history and spelling lessons.

One group, Lisa Shuryan, Cassie Parker, Victoria Wheatley, and Chelsea Janks, spent four hours one day taking photos in the township. After the photos were developed, the girls wrote captions, and put the photos into a book to display Canton to the Coldwater students.

Brian Luke, Richard Dziuban, Josiah Swartz, and Jason McFalls, created a skit based on two students who are trying to write a history report on Canton. They contact a scientist, who takes them back in time to 1834 and 1961. The group reports that they found the township's population in 1961 was 5,366, and the township was named after a city in China.

The Route 12 Project is designed to help bring the local and national community into regular classroom lessons by linking together schools, teachers, students, libraries, museums, businesses, and other institutions along Route 12.

Women's club provides spring fashion update

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

If you want to know what's hot and what's not in the fashion world, then the place for you to be was the Wayne Business and Professional Women's Springtacular at the Wayne Community Center.

According to the fashionable models, animal prints are very hot, and the colors for summer are light tans, beiges and white. Hats are also very hot, especially straw ones!

Bright colors and prints also were featured, so women need not limit their wardrobes to neutral colors.

Accessories are important - the right scarf, jewelry, hat and purse can turn an ordinary outfit into a glamorous one. Model Virgile Davis displayed an eye-catching array of shoes, which were just right to accent the clothes she modeled.

Lucy Miner of Jafra Cosmetics, Bea Roderick of Les Bebe de Bea and Barb Eckart with a collection of scarves provided expertise in makeup and accessorizing.

Skirt lengths are short, knee-high and calf-length so take your pick, according to the fashion experts. Many suits featured short-sleeved jackets, which makes them just right for the working woman who wants to look businesslike and also be cool and comfortable.

Last month, the BPW hosted a dinner and fashion show with clothes from The Answer and The Dress Barn, both in Westland. Moderator was Mary Ann Ellis, fashion show chairmen were Kathy Beeny and Sharon Popek and escorts were Wayne Mayor Ken Warfield, City Manager John Zech, Fire Chief Mike O'Brien, Police Chief John Colligan, Wayne Update anchor Rich Berger and Wayne councilmen Al Haidous and Rick Powell.

3 muscle cars

Firebird Formula, SS Camaro, Mitsubishi 3000GT tested

I recently had the opportunity of test driving not one, but three awesome muscle cars. The 1997 Pontiac Firebird Formula, the 1997 Chevrolet SS Camaro, and the 1997 Mitsubishi 3000GT.

What a treat that was!

It would be tough to sell a Formula under a banner that read "Pontiac Builds Refinement." This is, after all, a car that is named for a famous racing series and a car that has a long history of being sold with the decal of a giant screaming chicken on its hood. This car serves up more flash than any previous Formula.

The Formula came equipped with a six-speed V-8 305 horsepower at 5200 rpm's and 335 pound feet of torque at 4000 rpm's. This baby really moved. Zero to sixty in the blink of an eye.

Let's now compare that with the SS Camaro that had a six speed Hurst Shift Kit V-8 305 horsepower at 5200 rpm's, but that is only if you purchase the SS edition which will set you back an additional $3999. This one was also very quick, maybe even a little snappier than the Formula.

Mitsubishi also has a peppy little sports car, the 3000GT. It has an aspirated 3.0 liter, 24 valve, double overhead-cam V-6 engine that produces 222 horsepower at 6,000 rpm's and 205 ft lbs. of torque at 4,500 rpm's. That does not even compare to the Camaro or the Formula. If you are looking for speed, avoid this one. It is all looks.

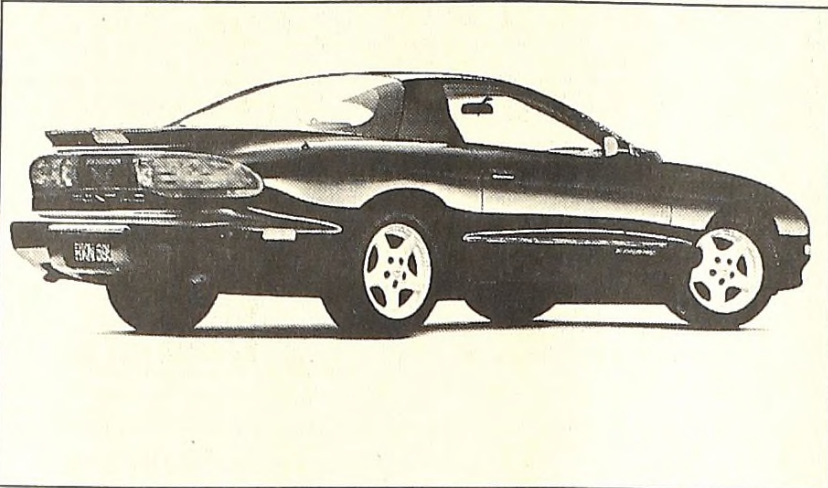

You'll never mistake any of these three automobiles for family cars. In all of them the dashboards are high and extend far forward beneath a steeply sloped windshield, creating a feeling that you're far removed from the road. On all, wide roof pillars block the drivers view when backing up or changing lanes, and the low seating position further hurts visibility. I guess that's what one should expect from a sports car though.

Rear leg room in the Camaro, Formula, and the 3000GT is limited to begin with, and is nearly nonexistent if the front seats are more than half way back. Entry/exit into the low cockpit is difficult in the Camaro and Formula, and the wide heavy doors require lots of room to open.

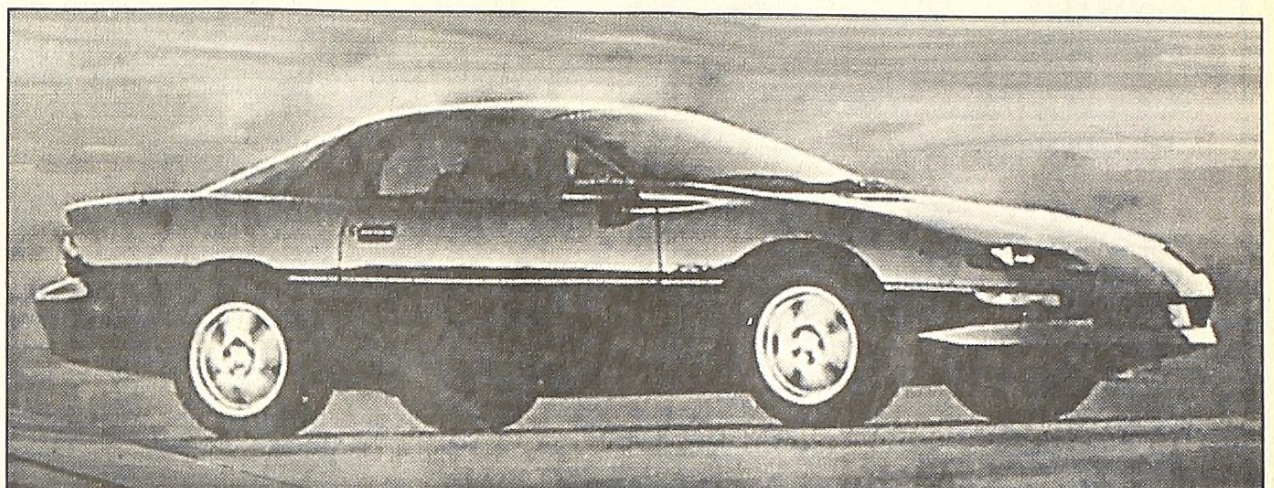

However, in the Mitsubishi neither of those problems existed.

In all, interior storage is limited to a large glove box and a covered central bin. In the Camaro and Formula the rear cargo area is a deep well large enough for two sets of golf clubs with a shallower shelf forward. The rear seat folds to create a long floor, but a high liftover makes loading and unloading difficult. Basically the same holds true for the 3000GT.

All of the gauges in the two GM products have a convenient layout. That's because of the redesigned dashboard that rearranges old gauges and switches. All of the instruments are easy to see, the radio and climate controls are easy to reach, and the power window and door locks are conveniently mounted on the driver's arm rest. The biggest flaw in both is the turn signal stalk, which also governs the cruise control system, wipers, and washers and high-beam headlights. In my opinion, that's too many functions for one control and the movement of the stalk is stiff and crude. One feature that I loved though was the stereo controls for the CD player as well as muting and volume found on the steering wheel itself. Now that's convenient. You never have to take your eyes off the road. That feature was only on the Pontiac.

The Camaro had a compact disc player right in the dash, none of the others did. They were both in the trunk. I don't like that feature. It was very inconvenient. I also found the stereo system in the Formula to be the best, the 3000 GT to come in second, and I was real disappointed in the stereo in the Camaro, sound quality was not crisp or clear. The seats in all of them were comfortable, especially in the Camaro which had six way power adjustable seating for the driver.

I test drove the 30th anniversary edition with an option package which mimics colors available on the 1969 Z28 and includes white exterior paint with broad orange stripes, white alloy wheels, and white seats with black-and-white houndstooth check cloth inserts. (Talk about turning some heads.) Actually they all turned heads! The Formula because of the sleek design and its convertible top, and the 3000 GT, because of its sexy body lines and curves.

When putting the whole package together on these three automobiles, the Formula was a little bit noisy, I think that's because of the convertible top. And with the top up, you had a major blind spot on the drivers side preventing you from seeing anything coming your way on that side.

Aside from that though, it was by far my favorite. I really couldn't find much else wrong with it.

The Camaro was also a real nice vehicle, fast, fun to drive, and a true muscle car through and through! The only thing really wrong with this one was the stereo. Aside from that, a great car.

Then we get to the Mitsubishi 3000GT, I loved the body styling of this one. What a great design, and fun to drive. The only thing I could have wished for in this one was MORE POWER!!!!

Now, let's get to the fun part, gas mileage and price. The Camaro was base priced at $20,115 and if you want the SS package, tack on another $3,999. So, as tested, this car was $24,114 and got 14 miles to the gallon mostly in city driving. The Formula's base price was $26,524 and as tested, $31,968 (OUCH!) The gas mileage was just a little bit better than the Camaro 17 miles to the gallon in the same condition. Mitsubishi came in better on price and gas, base price is $25,000 as tested $27,000 and the mileage is 22 miles per gallon in mostly city driving as well.

After reviewing all of these ground stomping, pavement eating, sports cars with ATTITUDE, I have decided that out of all of them my favorite would have to be the Pontiac Firebird Formula.

It offered all of the power that I could possibly handle along with a great design. From its sleek body lines to its convertible top. I would recommend this car to anyone who wants style and power all wrapped up in one incredible package!

I was not the only one to test drive these super sports cars. Ron Speilman, Sales Manager here at Michigan Community Newspapers also took them for a spin, and here are some of his comments:

"It's not often an old hotrodder like myself gets a chance to test drive several of the new breed stock offerings from the major manufacturers. Of course I jumped at the chance. Here are some of my findings:

- On the Formula:
- First of all this is a convertible, need I say more. The top folded down smoothly.
- This car can really fly
- This car has the same engine as the Camaro but lacks a couple of necessities. The transmission was still a six speed but the throw was much longer.
- The exhaust had a tamer sound
- Stereo system was exceptional
- On the Camaro:
- I fishtailed for a block and a half, my kind of car.
- The six speed transmission was flawless.
- The Hurst Shifter seemed to think in advance for you.
- The wide tires hugged the road like glue.
- The engine was most impressive to me.
- Ride was smooth
- I feel this car could give the Corvette fits at anything up to 100 mph.
- On the 3000GT:
- The car looks great
- With the high back fin and racy look, it can turn heads
- Absolutely no room in back seat
- Car ran flawlessly
- Handling was very good
- Shifter could take some lessons from Hurst
- If you are a young person looking for a good car with exceptional looks, this may be for you!"

Jonathan's Restaurant hidden treasure

Sometimes in order to get the best things, you have to hunt a little bit.

That is true with Jonathan's Family Restaurant in Canton, which is hidden behind Subway on 40335 Michigan Avenue, east of I-275.

Jonathan's is open 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday.

The food prices are reasonable (dinner specials are $5.95 and include soup, salad and dessert), and there are low prices on breakfast and lunch items as well.

Owner Adam Adamopoulos said he hopes customers take the time to look for Jonathan's to take advantage of great food, great prices and generous portions. All this is topped off with excellent wait staff as well, he said.

"People today are looking for a place where they can get good food at reasonable prices," Adamopoulos said. "We have the best quality food in the area."

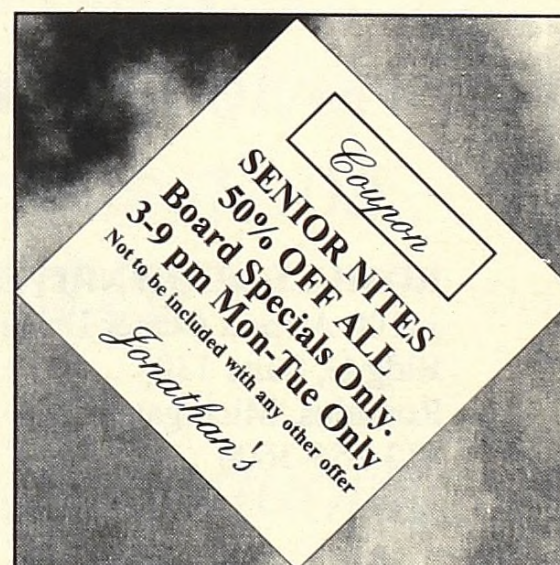

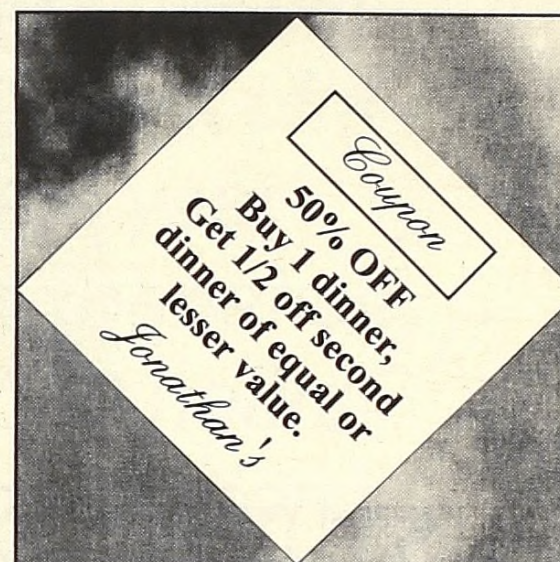

At Jonathan's, a customer can expect to be treated well, and can count on eating in a neat atmosphere.

"People are treated very well here," he said.

The restaurant staff has received numerous compliments from customers who appreciate the service and food.

Adamopoulos said he worked as a carpenter before learning the restaurant trade nearly 27 years ago. An immigrant from Greece in 1970, he started out as a bus boy, and worked his way through the ranks. He learned cooking through observation and opened his first restaurant in 1976 in Ann Arbor, which had six booths. He has owned and operated several restaurants in the Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor and Western Wayne area since that time, but currently only owns the Jonathan's in Canton.

The name Jonathan was picked because, "It's a good American name," Adamopoulos said.

Daily Specials - $1.99 size muffin FREE with every meal.

Breakfast Special - $1.99 M-F 6a.m. 11a.m.

Beef Tips Over Noodles - Pepper steak over rice

Baked swiss steak.

Fish & Chips (Icelandic Cod) - Broiled fish.

Roast Chicken, Pork or Turkey.
